Rickenbrodes Find Canal Zone Country Very Beautiful

Instead of being flat and swampy, the Canal Zone is mountainous and beautiful, according to word received this week from Mr. and Mrs. Rickenbrode, who left the campus about a month ago for a trip through Central America. They were in Panama City January 6, and they made the trip from Cristobal on the Atlantic side by a forty-seven-mile ride. Mr. Rickenbrode, who is business manager at the College, wrote that he drove over to Gatun Locks from Cristobal, and saw two large boats go through. They were put in twenty-six boats through that I had an idea the Canal Zone was flat and swampy, but not so. It was quite mountainous and most beautiful. We go back to Cristobal Monday and take our boats through the Canal for a trip up the west coast of Central America. It takes about eight hours to go through the Canal.

The weather, they report, is warm and not hot and that the nights are not too cold. The Rickenbrodes plan to be in the remainder of the winter.

Seventy-Two Percent of Students in America Favor Training Pilots

College Youth Stands Ready to do Its Part in President Roosevelt's Program

By Joe Belden, Editor

Student Opinion Surveys of America

El Paso, Texas, Jan. 20—College youth stands ready to do its part in the $7-billion dollar rearmament program that President Roosevelt proposes for the United States. Specifically, seven-tenths of American college students today approve the plan to train 20,000 civilian pilots a year in colleges and universities, the nation, a country-wide poll of the Student Opinion Surveys of America shows.

When the President asked Congress to appropriate $10,000,000 for training aviators in cooperation with national institutions he was in the task of making the United States safe from the possibility of an invasion. The surveys conducted this scientific sample exclusively for The Northwest Missourian and the seventy-six other leading student newspapers throughout the nation.

The President Says

At the first Assembly of the New Year the President spoke of some things which he believed should be brought to the attention of the student body.

In the years he has been at this college he has never sensed a finer response than he feels has been given to what he said. He wishes to express his appreciation to every student.

UEL W. LAMKIN,
President.

College Students Have Chance to See Pulitzer Prize Play of 1936

"Idiot's Delight" Will Be Given At Music Hall in Kansas City

The College bus will transport a group of students to Kansas City Monday, January 30, to see Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, one of the most famous acting teams in the world, present "Idiot's Delight," a dramatic production which ran several years on Broadway in New York City. The play was written by Robert E. Sherwood and was the Pulitzer Prize production of 1936.

Transportation charges and admission price will total three dollars, it was announced this week by Dr. Margaret Ruth Smith, director of personnel for women. Reservations, however, must be made in Dr. Smith's office by next Monday afternoon.

Only Trip This Winter
Dr. Smith said that this will probably be the only trip this winter which the College will arrange for students to see, as it is probably the most outstanding performance of the season. "Idiot's Delight" will be presented in the Music Hall at the new Municipal Auditorium in Kansas City.

Mr. Lunt and Miss Fontanne are married and always appear together in productions. Reviewing the play in the New York Sun, Richard Lockridge had the following to say: "It is beyond any possible doubt Mr. Sherwood's best play. Graced by the Lunts it is also one of the best productions the Guild has given to any play. It is bright with ingenuity; vividly and imaginatively staged. A grand evening."

Nine Persons from STC Hear Pianists

Luboshutz and Nemenoff, two highly recommended pianists, presented their concert in St. Joseph last Monday evening.

A group from the college attended. Those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Paschal Monk, Helen Reed, Marjory Murray, Elizabeth Turner, Betty June Harazin, Elene Swan, Sylvia Amorim, and Helen Shipman.

seven schools, authorities there and officials in Washington will know that it has the approval of the majority of the student bodies. Only three out of seven are against the program, the survey indicates.

The preliminary courses will be offered at the University of Washington, Alabama, and Minnesota, and at Purdue, Texas A. & M., Georgia Tech. and M. I. T.

Defense measuring costing $552,000,000 will call for an increase in the air force as one of the paramount points. More planes will mean more aviators. College men are always preferred; so campuses have been assigned as elementary training bases until a reserve of 100,000 pilots has been created. The six-month's training will include fifty hours of dual and solo flying. Many are expected to continue at the advanced Army and Navy schools, possibly entering the regular service or becoming reserve officers.

Students May Hear Musical Programs

Is Beethoven or Bach your favorite classical composer? Do you prefer modern or symphonic music? If your ideas about music are not quite clear to you or if you care to learn more about what is going on in the musical world, you have a chance right here and now.

This is what happened to some members of the Harmony class during this term of school. They decided to use the 2:00 o'clock hour on Fridays for ? ? ?

Last Friday a group of students listened to "Symphony in A Minor" by Grieg. No certain topic or selection has been chosen as yet for this Friday, because it is up to you to select what you want to hear.

Every student who graduates from college should be at least familiar with music of some kind, since they can not get away from it. Therefore, any student in the College may attend the music programs.

OLD MAN WINTER once again with his lace work of snow on evergreens and window panes, returns to the campus this week with his icy chill. Low temperatures set College men looking for their heavy mittens and ear muffs, while the co-eds fastened tighter their Parka hoods. High-topped overshoes have been quite popular this week about the campus.

Free throws missed—Kirksville 4; Maryville 8.

Even though Coach Wilbur Stalcup's College Bearcats missed twice as many free tosses as the Kirksville Bulldogs, it was via the free throw route that the locals defeated the northeast Missouri teachers on the Kirksville basketball court last night by a score of 26 to 25. Maryville scored nine field goals to ten for Kirksville, but the locals converted for eight free throws to five for the losers.

After trailing 16 to 12 at the half-time, the Bulldogs started a rally that fell one point short by the end of the encounter. Kirksville held a lead the first five minutes but Bob Rogers, stellar Bearcat guard, began hitting long ones and gave the locals a substantial lead at the half.

Shortly following the half, Bass, Morse and Reese connected with field goals to put Kirksville within one point of the Bearcats. In the last fifteen seconds a Maryville player fouled Niemark but he missed the free shot which would have tied the score.

Bob Rogers tied with Morse, Kirksville guard, for high scoring honors for the evening, both converting for nine points. Harold Hull was next high with eight points, followed by Dale Hackett with seven.

The one-point victory last night makes Maryville still in the lead in the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association conference, having won three and lost none.

One worthy enterprise of the college which is awaited with pleasurable expectation by the college community and the public alike is known as The February Lectures. Begun several years ago as one of the avenues of service of the faculty as well as one of the evidences of professional activity on the part of faculty members, The February Lectures attained in 1936 a permanent status in the college calendar, for at that time it was recognized that in these lectures was a substantial achievement which should become a part of the permanent records of the college. Hence in 1936 the lectures were published as Volume One of The Northwest Missouri State Teachers College Studies. Thus began a unique publication, for these printed lectures constitute the one scholarly production which bears the imprint of the college.

Cast Picked For Play to be Given By O'Neillians

The case for the play production "Night of January Sixteenth," was announced today by the O'Neillian Dramatics Club of the College. A definite part casting of the characters, however, has not yet been complete.

The cast of eleven women and nine men is as follows: Bernice Laughlin, Guilford; Gwendolyn Burch, Graham; Doris Hiles, Burlington Junction; Mary Louise Law, Tarkio; Margaret Kyle, Graham; Lurline Stevens, Allendale; Rosalie Aldridge, Ruth Morrow, Plattsburg; Helen Johnson, Rosendale; Marjorie McAllister, Farragut, Ia., and Dorothy Farnam, Parnell.

James Hitchcock, Clarinda, Ia.; Charles Kelley, Gower; Guy Davis, Craig; Eugene Stephens, Shenandoah, Ia.; Kenneth Tehow, Maryville; Julian Groshong, Smithville; Harold Bruggeman, Maryville; Gladie Bilby, Skidmore, and Barnett Eichenberg, Maryville.

The date for the play has not yet been announced.

Assembly Conduct Topic of Senate

The Student Senate met for a short business session on Tuesday evening with Durwood Maxted, Tarkio, Iowa, vice-president in charge of the meeting. Bill Maloy, Redding, Iowa, gave a brief report for the Constitution committee and the committee on study rooms also reported.

The main topic for the discussion was the conduct of assemblies. The members of the senate expressed approval of the assembly procedure as a whole and a plan of action for future assemblies was drawn up. The officers of the various classes and the senators of the classes are to act as ushers and guides for their respective classes. These students will sit in convenient seats where the members of the class can see them and can then follow their example in leaving the assembly or the auditorium.

This fact is evident from the great number and the character of the response that have come from recipients of the Studies. The president of one college sent congratulations upon the scholarly character of the publication, saying, "Any institution ought to feel justly proud of it."

Another typical comment came from a professor of political science in an Eastern university: "It is a pleasure to look over the February lectures. I am sure, from these Studies, that you are giving your students much meat. If they are thoroughly understood to be lectures, given to undergraduates, they will do much in establishing your school as one of the outstanding teachers colleges in this country. Certainly few can boast of such quality."

Graduate Writes of Work in Arizona

Miss Ruth E. Burnett, who received her life diploma in 1925, wrote Mr. H. T. Phillips, chairman of the Department of Education, this week about her work in Tucson, Arizona, where she has taught since 1929.

Miss Burnett is "teaching in the primary grades at Drachman School and is doing Americanization work." She states that she has been doing work toward a degree at the University of Arizona at Tucson and hopes to complete her work in the near future. Miss Burnett formerly lived at Hopkins.

Attendants of the king and queen led the procession down the artificially constructed basketball court to the thrones located underneath the north goal. A gigantic Bearcat smiled approval of the coronation from his perch above the thrones.

Robert Taylor, Maryville, was master of ceremonies and crowned the king and queen. The attendants of the royal couple were: Gladys Miller, St. Joseph; Durwood Maxted, Tabor, Iowa; Iola Argo, Skidmore, Bill McCurdy, Braddyville; Marie Holding, St. Joseph, and Chalmers Corrington, Maryville.

Miss Winice Ann Carruth, member of the physical education department and sponsor of the Barkatze organization, assisted in planning the arrangements. Robert Mitchell, Skidmore, was in general charge of the dance.

Look Upon Your Scholastic Work as Personal Editorial

Someone has defined genius as "one percent inspiration and ninety-nine percent perspiration." But what has genius to do with editorials, you ask? It has just this, the inspiration usually constitutes the one percent of the editorial and the perspiration the ninety-nine percent but the comparison will not be carried so far as to say that the editorial then constitutes genius.

This discussion may not be timely nor worth the effort required to read it but it does serve to illustrate some facts about the mid-term reports which are now being made out. By the time the students and their parents have read this item, these little pink and white report slips will have reached most of the students' parents and that is of vital interest to more students than one may realize.

If your parents received a pink slip which denotes unsatisfactory work for the first half of the quarter, then you should stop reading instantly and renew such classic collegiate resolutions as "I resolve to study more this year and to waste less time," "I resolve not to cut any more classes," and so on down the list, and then resolve to really keep those resolutions for at least one quarter.

Of course, you may be one of those students whose parents received no slip at all, in that case, look to your laurels, is such they be, and see why you are not or why you cannot do superior work. If you would just "bear down" for one quarter, you might even surprise yourself with what you have done.

Then, you could be one of the students whose parents received a white slip or two which denotes superior work for the first half of the quarter. For this work, the student deserves and rightfully receives the commendation of the faculty. The parent experiences a glow of satisfaction as reward for some of the many things that he has done for that student.

Therefore, whether you received a pink slip, a white slip, or no slip at all, look upon your work as your own personal editorial, set your scholastic compass to forward, search for your one percent inspiration—it is present and it can be found if the seeker has sincerity and driving purposes—then exert yourself to supply the ninety-nine percent perspiration. The result should be your complete, finished editorial of collegiate accomplishment.

From the Dean . . .

Since many of our students come from the rural areas of the district and since many of our graduates go out to teach in rural schools, the problem of RURAL YOUTH: THEIR SITUATION AND PROSPECTS* is a timely contribution to those planning to teach.

"The plight of rural youth is not a problem of the country alone. It is of vital significance to the cities as well. In one respect the crux of the rural youth problem is the relation of rural youth to city youth. Except in periods of severe depression it is probable that urban youth could make their economic adjustments with relative ease at least on a minimum subsistence level, if they did not face the competition of rural youth who migrate to the cities. . . . But the long-time rural youth problem is that of an excess in numbers in relation to a dearth of rural opportunities, a situation which becomes greatly aggravated during 'hard times'. Hence, rural youth must go to the cities in large numbers as long as there is any hope of employment. . . .

"While most rural young people encounter some difficulties in making their economic adjustments and in obtaining an adequate education and the opportunity for satisfactory personal and social development, those encountered since 1930 have been more acute than ever before. . . .

"The future of American rural life, and, to a large extent of urban life, rests on increased industrial production, a closer integration of industry and agriculture, and an expansion of the cultural and human services so badly needed in rural society. Rural youth as they approach the threshold of citizenship responsibility need not necessarily face contracting opportunities. It is the responsibility of a democratic society to see that these new citizens receive a fair share of the national income in order that they may become effective consumers as well as producers and thus contribute in just measure to the prosperity of both agriculture and industry.

"Rural America must choose between two courses. One is the active planning for the conservation of its human resources, recognizing the fact that with an age group will the planning produce greater returns than with young people. The other is to let present trends continue. Until free land in the West was exhausted and the cities ceased their mass absorption, youth could escape from their home communities. But the problems of rural youth can no longer be wholly transferred to other communities. Never has this country been faced so forcefully with the necessity of charting a course for its rural youth.

The Need for Education and Guidance

"The ability of the individual youth to make his economic adjustment when opportunities are available depends largely upon the education and guidance that may have been afforded him. That education gives an advantage in the struggle for security and that equality of educational opportunity is an inherent right of youth are traditions in American life. The fact must be clearly faced, however, that there is not equality of educational facilities in rural America and that the areas which supply the largest portion of the oncoming generation are those in which educational opportunities are most severely restricted.

"A heavy increase in rural high school enrollment has occurred during the same years that the most serious problems of rural youth have emerged. While this enrollment may have been partly due to expanded school facilities, it undoubtedly has been in large measure a result of present-day employment conditions. In numerous instances youth have gone to school because there was nothing else to do. Moreover, during recent years there has been a definite movement to keep youth in school longer. This raises certain questions. Will the fact that youth attend school for longer periods solve the problems of rural youth? Or does continued attendance in the average public school of today only postpone the time when the same problems must be faced, with little better chance for successful solution? To what extent have the schools been shock absorbers for the depression? How effective have they really been in assisting youth to make their social and economic adjustments?

"These queries cannot be answered categorically. They point, however, to the desirability of a redefinition of the functions of the rural schools in terms of current conditions, especially with respect to vocational education and guidance.

"Guidance toward occupations is almost entirely lacking in rural areas. Most youth enter adult occupations by chance. Giving them greater opportunities for both general and specific occupational training and for learning more about occupational openings is a special need facing rural America.

"Rural schools are responsible for the training and guidance of three broad groups of pupils: those who will go into commercial agriculture; those who will enter nonagricultural occupations in either rural or urban areas; and a third large group comprising those who under present circumstances are destined to remain in rural territory living on the land on a more or less self-sufficing basis. Vocational training in agriculture is doing much to prepare youth for farming, but with all the efforts in this direction it is doubtful if at present enough youth are being trained in high schools and colleges to provide an adequate number of farmers to raise the agricultural products needed for market at the highest possible level of efficiency and at the same time to operate their farms in accordance with the best principles of soil conservation.

"The rural-nonfarm youth who will enter non-agricultural occupations and the farm youth who will leave the farms receive little special consideration in the educational system. These two groups together constitute considerably more than half of all rural youth. Usually these groups can secure only the general education provided by a standard curriculum. Moreover, it is usually a curriculum built on the assumption that at high school graduation the young people will go on to college. This is in spite of the fact that many of the professions and white-collar occupations for which young people are being trained are at present overcrowded when judged in relation to the economic demand."

CAMPUS CAMERA

Around the Campus

I should like to make some remarks about the beauty of the snow on the campus, but just as sure as I did, it would all melt before this bit got to press. However, as I write this, the trees are all laden with little piles of snow, and the ground is white. Enuff of that, because I was not meant to be a writer of lyric descriptions. I guess the fact that this is the first snowfall of the winter sorta got me. I have been leary of the campus descriptions ever since I went into ecstasies about the beauty of the leaves this fall, and the night after I turned the copy in, we had a frost and all the leaves fell. When the bit was published the trees were as bare as Oscar, the anatomy class skeleton. Was I embarrassed?

Heard here and there: The next dorm dance will be a Winter Cruise, all the decorations and the plan of the thing being on board ship. . . . if it's as big a success as the Trump Frolic of the fall quarter, it will go down in campus history as a remarkably good social event. . . . by the way, the decoration committees asks that the guests please do not swipe the portholes. . . . and fellers now is the time to start being extra nice to that dorm girl fren', and if you haven't got a dorm girl fren' now is the time to start showing up at the dorm in the evenings. . . . Around the Campus and I walked out to the new NYA dormitories the other day, and were mightily surprised to see how rapidly they were progressing. . . . A bit of a belated cheer to the NORTHWEST MISSOURIAN for their new policy of showing pictures of current and campus interest in the columns of the paper. . . . and while we're giving the organizations a hand, watch for the W. A. A. demonstration basketball game late this quarter. . . . with what the girls have been doing in the tournament now in progress, the demonstration played between two picked teams should be a rip-roarer.

The thrill of the week, though, and I have saved the best for the last, was the faculty women's basketball game Saturday afternoon. I shall not embarrass some of our dignified ladies by printing the teams, but I will say that they came from the music department, the physical education, the training school, and the personnel departments. If you will note carefully, you will still see some of them walking a bit gingerly, and thereby you can tell the teams as well as I.

The Students' Voice

DO WE APPRECIATE OUR FLAG?

At the present time, when world affairs have made us all appreciative of the country which is ours, it is very fitting that we honor our country's emblem at our basketball games in a beautiful ceremony before we sing our traditional Alma Mater.

However, some violations of flag etiquette have occurred which should be corrected. The flag should not be allowed to touch the floor, and when it is raised to position on the wall it should be hung with the union to the observer's left.

Proper observance of the rules for displaying the flag would add to the effectiveness of the ceremony.

Dear Ed:

During the assembly this week, many people found it hard to hear the speaker. The reason?—too many people were talking. From where I was sitting I could hear people talking eight rows behind me. As I looked toward the stage, I saw several paper wads fly through the air. I think this is a disgrace to our College.

Attending assemblies is part of our College life and I think we should show proper respect to the speaker or whatever program is being put on.

Yours truly,
A Respectable Freshman.

Books in Review

No Hearts to Break by Susan Ertz 451p. $2.50 Appleton-Century.

This book is a historical novel based on the story of the Baltimore girl who married Napoleon's youngest brother, Jerome.

Charles Marriott, reviewing the book in the October 29 issue of the Manchester Guardian, makes this statement concerning the book, "Susan Ertz has brought to this story a simplicity and a lightness of touch which other historical novelists might study with profit. One rarely feels, while reading it that she is dealing with historic scenes and persons."

Isabel Paterson in the October 15 issue of the Booklist says, "Miss Ertz tells the story with vivacity and a keen appreciation of the singular characters concerned. It is an excellent novel of its kind, as well as a curious chapter of history."

Pathetic Things or Something

By Helen J. Reed

Some one wants to know if this column is supposed to be funny. Funny is a funny word. It is used so many funny ways. Funny may mean ridiculous, humorous, witty, comical or ludicrous. Many people also use it to mean peculiar. This is the way in which it can be used as an adjective, to describe this column.

It is interesting to note how many things are funny. Books are funny things. They have such peculiar titles. But books are not half as funny as the people who write them. The same is true of newspapers and magazines.

Lots of other things are funny too. For instance once in a while you will hear a joke that is funny. If you hear it from a platform or at a banquet it is twice as funny as if you heard it any other place. This is because it is so very funny to hear a funny joke that really strikes you as funny told by a person who is obviously trying to be funny.

Another funny thing is how funny it is that one funny person can use one funny word all this funny time and never have said anything funny yet. It's funny how hard it is to be funny. Funny, isn't it? Well, that's getting old. If you're tired thinking of funny things think of something pathetic, like a corpse waking up in a graveyard and being hungry for breakfast or like an old woman yawning and swallowing her false teeth.

If pathetic thoughts make a saline solution leave its natural habitat in the lachrymal glands and smoothly undulate over your facial epidermis, then think of something comical such as the time intoxication was defined as a cure for diphtheria. And I suspect the same understudy of Webster having been guilty of these definitions. A philanthropist is one who has the power of throwing his voice. A pseudo-science is one that teaches you to believe what you really know is not true. Psychotherapy is a study of how to vent and cure the patient.

All of which reminds me of a about Webster. Some fellow thought he was a great orator always expounding the virtues of Daniel Webster. One day he said, "My dear friends and fellow who wrote the dictionary?" A friend behind him who knew that it was Noah Webster who wrote the dictionary kindly whispered, "Sh—N—wrote the dictionary." The orator turned and with evident composure replied, "Noah built the ark." So egotism is when you don't let the world know that you are out of ammunition, but keep on firing. So the end of this column but it will be another next week.

The Stroller . . .

As the sign painter said when he fell off a scaffold, "I'm coming down with flying colors. This is the Stroller bringing you the cream gossip right off the milk of human kindness. can't help it if the cream has soured.

And speaking of cream, it takes a newspaper editor to untangle the twisted title, "I'm an old bovine nurse" and get "I'm an old cow hand," the Senior party "Carrot Top" Ströhm should have had the blue ribbon for answering this question but being the chivalrous gentleman he is, yielded this honor to Marie Holding and was satisfied with second place. The Stroller hasn't been able to figure out how Francis Stubbs, who is junior, rated the Senior party. Not only was it a social success but it also turned up so literary geni that the profs have been over looking.

After last week's paper came out, I received the following note, "To whom it may concern: The Stroller makes a slip! Martha Sue and Hel Zimmernan were out of town Christmas Day. Sincerely, Guess Who?" O. K. But that doesn't Art Smith couldn't go along or that Christmas was the only day in the entire vacation.

Irene Bohnenblust seems to be giving "Bladie" Gibson a little trouble. She has had several dates with the up-town boy friend that Gibson is dating.

The Stroller bows before the new royal "Queenie" Anthony and "Kingfish" McLaughlin, whose coronation took place at the Barka dance. Thought for a minute that their reign would be a short one for as soon as they put crowns on them, they took them off—but it was just because they got the crowns mixed up. For is, it was a short reign. They aren't seen again evening.

That was quite a dance; not only was there coronation, but a floor show and a darn good one too. Guess Mildred Maham didn't think so though for I saw her sitting just staring into space. (Maybe that's what comes from going with one boy a long time.) Jitterbug Davis had best look to laurels for Bob Mitchell was surely giving him run for his money. Betty Lindley and Dick Stevenson appointed themselves a clean-up committee of two and were dancing with white paper on the feet. They figured they covered enough ground to polish all the floor. The Dean's petite secretary showed up with Max Mudd. Frank Hayes was squiring Roberta Utterback. Then there was De wood Maxted doing all of his trick steps with Wilfred Caton. "Candid Eye" Davidson chose N dine Malone as his photographic subject for the evening. Then, of course, in spite of my scolding Doris Hiles, Nyda Snyder and Edna Shaw had dates with members from the young business men circle of Maryville.

Ken Lawson calls his girl airplane — can she's no good on earth.

Have you noticed Maurice Smith and Mildred Hackitt? Perhaps they've discovered they're kindred spirits or something. Anyway they seem like each other's company.

The Green and White Peppers have been quite altruistic lately. They presented their rig for a check room for three of the games to the "M" club. They're not so "green" after all.

Now is the time for all boys to start dating dorm girls (if they aren't already) for next week the girls are going to split up a little and give a dorm dance. Some of the girls are wondering if who they ought to invite so you'd better start convincing them that "You're the one." However you are inclined to become seasick you'd better decline the invitation, for the dance will have a theme of a Winter Cruise.

There once was a girl from Siam who said to her lover, young Kiam "If you kiss me, of course you will have to use force, But heaven knows you're stronger than I am.

If this poem? had been out this week it would make a four-weeks holdout. "X" that Ed.

Since Jim Powell has been on the sick list Irene Nelson wanders around the halls all by herself. But it won't be for long, for Jim is rapidly improving and we all hope, as well as Irene that he will soon be with us again.

Frank Yourek, the Puritan Knighthawk, has become a ladies' man in more ways than one. While sitting at table completely surrounded by girls, he was heard to exclaim, "Don't we girls have more fun?"

The younger of the Bird boys, Erman, has taken his library work seriously now that he has such a nice companion as Ruth Morrow to study with.

This week's scoop "Little Joe" Kurtwright had a bad vacation last year. He washed dishes with his gal stepped out with some other guy—She invited Joe to dinner and he was just helping clean up the dishes—Oh well—

This column is kinda like a Welsh rabbit cheese.

"M" CLUB DANCE

Maybe you would like to see "Tarzan, the Master of the Jungle," struggle with temptation, or maybe you would prefer going home after winning the Springfield ball game on February 17. Of course, the "M" Club would be different in their dance that Friday night, but with so much hidden talent among its members it would be unjustifiable to let it continue unseen. This Tarzan happens to be one of the most agile of any of the members. Maybe it would be interesting, yes?

MRS. DAVID SUTTERLIN, who before her marriage last Saturday, was Miss Arlene Birdsall of Ravenwood. She is a graduate of the College in the class of 1938 and majored in home economics. She was a member of Kappa Omicron Phi, national home economics sorority, and the College Y. W. C. A.

Arlene Birdsall, David Sutterlin Wed at Ravenwood

Miss Hazel Arlene Birdsall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Birdsall of Ravenwood and a graduate of the College, and David Sutterlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sutterlin of Maryville, were married last Saturday afternoon at the Ravenwood Methodist church, South, with Rev. Arnold Burns officiating. The altar was banked with greenery and lighted by ivory tapers.

A musical program was given preceding the ceremony. Kenneth Tebow, a freshman in the College, violinist, played "Believe Me if All Those Endearing Young Charms," "Indian Love Call," and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life." Miss Lola Belle Sutterlin, Maryville, sang "O Promise Me," and "I Love You Truly." Mrs. Kenney Tebow, accompanist, played Lohengrin's wedding march for the processional and Mendelssohn's for the recessional and during the service played Gounod's "Ave Maria."

The bride was attired in a dress of aquamarine silk alpaca and diamond, accessories with which she wore a shoulder corsage of pink rose buds and sweet peas. Her attendant, Miss Beverly McGinnis, Graham, a senior in the College, wore a navy blue silk dress. Her corsage was of sweet peas.

Miss Marjorie Nicholas of Savannah and Miss Irene Rowe, Red Oak, Ia., lighted the tapers before the service. William Stilwell of Chillicothe, former student in the College, served as best man for Mr. Sutterlin, and ushers were: Floyd Pope, jr., Maryville; Robert Riddle, St. Joseph; Leland Hamilton, Bedford, Ia., and Nelson Denny, Red Oak, Ia. The latter two are students in the College.

Following the wedding a reception was given in the church parlors. The serving table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake and was lighted by ivory tapers.

Mrs. Sutterlin is a graduate of the Ravenwood high school and the College. While here she was a member of Kappa Omicron Phi, national home economics sorority, and the Young Women's Christian Association. Mr. Sutterlin is a graduate of the Skidmore high school and is employed in Maryville.

Mr. and Mrs. Sutterlin are at home at 716 East First street in Maryville.

Increase of Aged Is Vital Problem

"The disturbing factor in our industrial nation is the rapid increase in numbers of persons over sixty-five years of age," Alden Torrey, St. Joseph, director of social security in northwest Missouri and northeast Kansas, said in an address last Tuesday night before the International Relations Club. "There must be some provision made to take care of these persons," he said.

Mr. Torrey explained that the main purpose of the national social security setup is to provide income for wage earners when they reach the age of sixty-five.

About four per cent of the total population in 1900 were over sixty-five years old in 1900. Mr. Torrey said, compared to six per cent in 1938, and to an estimated twelve per cent by 1960.

"Social Security is a sensible way of taking care of the inevitable," Torrey added. "In the United States about forty-two million persons are covered by social security insurance provisions."

Betty June Farazim, Alexandria, La., attended the piano concert of Luboshutz and Nemenoff in St. Joseph last Monday night.

Due to the fact that there were excellent movies in town over the week end, Hall women were granted leave on Saturday night.

The women at the dorm are getting their sea legs for the big "Winter Cruise" dinner-dance to be held January 28.

Idle Writer Sees Artistic Virtue in Apple and Banana

Tuesday afternoon a student with an afternoon of leisure wandered idly up to the College art department. The writer, being well versed in matters of art (exaggeration) did not waste any time looking around at the elementary artists but proceeded immediately to the advanced section. Here were found two of the four students of the oil painting class.

The reporter was especially interested in Betty McGee's composition. It contained an apple and a banana. Draw your own conclusion as to the reasons for the reporter's interest. Upon being questioned this young artist explained the good points of her composition but every reporter, despite a lack of artistic training, knows the virtues of an apple and a banana.

The other ardent artist, Elizabeth Matheny also explained her composition. This one contained a jug lying on its side instead of in its usual upright position. The puzzled journalist was informed that due to the shape of the handle and a number of other complicated factors the jug made a better composition lying on its side.

The four members of the art class are Elizabeth Matheny, Westboro; Betty McGee, Harris; Mrs. Helen Marion, St. Joseph; and Glen Dora Lehman, Skidmore.

Rural Roundup to be Staged Tomorrow by Sigma Tau Gamma Theta chapter of Sigma Tau Gamma, national social fraternity, will be formally installed as a chapter of "Gentlemen Farmers," tomorrow evening at the Maryville Country Club. The installation will be in the form of a Rural Roundup which will be held from 9 until 12 o'clock. It is a custom of the fraternity to stage, as the major social event of the winter quarter, a dance of this type.

The dance, as planned, will be a real old-time barn dance with the clubhouse decorated to resemble a hay loft. The guests will wear formal farm clothes, which will be overalls and gingham dresses and similar appropriate dress.

The decorations will be suggestive of a barn or barn loft. Bales of straw will furnish seating facilities and the clubhouse will be lighted with kerosene lanterns. The rest of the decorations will be suited to the atmosphere, but the plans for them were not disclosed by the committee.

The music for the dance will not be essentially of the "rural rhythm" variety although the music will be furnished by Ralph Yehle and his "Barnyard Ensemble."

Mr. and Mrs. Rawleigh E. Baldwin and Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Wright will act as chaperons. The other honorary members of the fraternity and their wives will be guests of honor. They are Mr. and Mrs. Donald N. Valk, Mr. and Mrs. J. Norvel Saylor, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth W. Simons, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Stalcup, and Mr. Roy Ferguson and guest.

The fraternity social committee is in charge of general arrangements and is composed of Caton Lake, St. Joseph, chairman; Henry Turner, jr., King City; Lowell Jones, Stewartsville; Bill Maloy, Redding, Iowa; and Rex Steffey, Oraig. The decorations committee is Rex Steffey, chairman; and Edward and Ermin Bird, James Manley and Paul Strohm, all of Maryville. Lowell Jones is in charge of the program and Caton Lake is in charge of invitations.

Eleven Men are Initiated Into Sigma Tau Gamma

Theta chapter of Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity held formal initiation last Sunday afternoon for eleven men who were given their active membership. The initiation was held at the Tau house on west seventh street and was in the charge of G. L. Johnson, president. The following men received their active: Joseph Baker, Hamburg, Iowa; Glenn Breckenridge, Smithville; Edward Bird, Maryville; Orville Brightwell, Booneville; Ted Davidson, St. Joseph; Robert Darr, Bethany; Keith Harris, Gower; Robert Stephenson, Bethany; Leland Vogel, Hamburg, Iowa; Verne Lawler, Maryville; and Bill Stringer, Moberly, Mo.

Hall Lights

The parlor floor is in excellent shape for dancing since it has just been waxed and varnished. Several new records have been purchased for the orthophonic.

The recent snow has made the front of the hall a truly beautiful winter scene. Coeds find snow suits the most appropriate wearing apparel.

Ethel Hester, Mound City, and Nancy Western, Maryville, spent the week-end in Kansas City.

Two new women moved into the Hall making the total 125. They are Virginia Grant of Maryville, Mo., and Olive Orth, Bedford, Ia., who attended school in Ames, Ia., last quarter.

Mr. Cook Makes Plea to Formulate League for Peace

American History Instructor Talks At Men's Forum

A plea to formulate a league to enforce peace among nations just as there are courts and police forces in every civilized state, was made by Mr. T. H. Cook, member of the American history department at the College, in an address delivered before the Men's Forum last Monday.

Said Mr. Cook, "I believe the League of Nations would have prevented war if the United States had gone into it. We were the only large nation that did not enter."

Mr. Cook quoted from parts of Theodore Roosevelt's address before the Nobel Prize committee, delivered in 1910: "We must attain peace step by step. We should make arbitration treaties with all civilized nations. Those who violate them should be punished."

World Court

"There should be a world court where disputes can be settled as today disputes between states are settled by our supreme court. Naval armaments should be reduced by mutual agreement. The agreement should go further than merely to limit the size of ships; there should be a league to enforce peace."

"If we followed this advice," Mr. Cook continued, "we could save the nations of the world millions of dollars every year."

He advocated reduction of high tariffs to help solve economic ills and thereby bring about peace, referring to the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill which resulted in the establishment of high tariffs by other nations.

Lauds Lima Agreement

"I am glad we signed the Lima conference agreement," he added, "but it not going far enough. We must have a league to enforce peace so we can stop nations that desire to go to war."

Mr. Cook concluded "Our government should take charge of all the munition factories in this country."

Juniors to Stage All-College Dance After Cape Game

The junior class of the College will sponsor an all-College dance next Friday night, Jan. 27. It was announced this week by Andrew Zemles, St. Joseph, president of the class. It will be held following the Cape Girardeau-Bearcat football game until 12 o'clock in the West Library.

Music for the dancing will be furnished by the College dance orchestra, known as the Ambassadors of Swing, and the admission will be fifteen cents per person. The class social committee is making plans for the affair. Zemles said.

Fields of Knowledge In February Lectures

barians have received a copy of Volume Two of the Studies, requests have come for Volume One and all ways for a place on the mailing list for future issues. This has been of great advantage to our library, for it has brought exchange studies from other colleges and from universities, including Proceedings from Academies of Science. In this way, in our library, the most recent thinking of specialists is made available.

The response from alumni who have received copies of the Studies has been enthusiastic and proud. The Studies have done more than any one thing in the history of the institution to enlist the attention of influential alumni and to center it upon the college. A typical response of alumni appears in this extract from the letter of acknowledgement: "This is in grateful acknowledgement of the 1937 and 1938 copies of the Studies. They are excellent both in subject matter and in the dignity of their construction. I like to see my college progress along these lines." The Studies is a tangible evidence of that kind of growth of a college in which the alumni can take pride—evidence of those permanent values of scholarship which they recognize and which will always command their loyalty and devotion.

Following The February Lectures of 1939, Volume Three of The Studies will be published in a format uniform with that of the earlier volumes, a format which is dignified and in good taste and in every way worthy of the college and on an equality with similar publications of other colleges. Again it will bring recognition by its intellectual character. Again the college will take pride in publishing a periodical of such high quality as it looks forward to greater extension in publishing the scholarly work of its faculty and its distinguished alumni.

Emma Lee Vance, Smithville, spent the week end in Turko, with her last year's roommate, Sue Brown, who is teaching in that city.

Cape Girardeau Indians to Seek Scalps of Bearcats January 27

Tribesmen to Seek Revenge for Defeat By Stalcupmen Earlier This Season

By Charles Curry
Missourian Sports Staff

Bearcat fans should be pleased to know that another snappy cage fray is scheduled to take place on the local court in the not-so-far distant future. The tussle is to come off at eight o'clock Friday, Jan. 27. The intended victims are the Indians from Cape Girardeau, who come here seeking scalps after having once lost to the Bearcats on their home court.

Seniors at the College should well remember Cape. In the past three years the Indians have turned out three classy teams, one that snapped the championship and two others that hustled the loop-leaders of the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association. The Redskins have exchanged games with the Bearcats for the last two years and there is a possibility that they might do it again. The Bearcats have won their victory already but they came from behind in the last few minutes to nudge out the Bucks by a whisker.

Tribe is Fast

The present Tribe is almost as fast as the swivel footed demons of other years and they are much taller. They flash a dazzling offense of passes that requires smoked glasses to watch and they are an outfit that can hit from far out on the court. Down on their own court they pumped in six ceiling sweepers in a row, and this mottled style of play seems to be a habit with them. Fans will see them milling around furiously, then the ball will pop up as unexpectedly as a bubble in a kettle of mush and head for the basket. The Bearcats will have to ride and rowl them hard if they mean to stop that sort of business.

This game will be an important one and a hard one. If Maryville wins it, she is in a fair position to trample the heels of Warrensburg and Springfield in the league race. It is a hard one because both teams are afraid of each other and will play cautious basketball. It has been pointed out that Cape won most of her points from long shots and not every team can depend on them all the time. At the same time Maryville fans should also note that the locals were forced to cannon long ones also to keep up. The Pittsburg game showed that an ice pack could be put on the notable bits of lava that have drawn their laurels by short shots.

Line-ups

Coach Harris of Cape plans to bring Agosta, Richmond, Norman and Adams. Warriors that we have seen before. Others who will take the warmth with these are: Shroyer, Mayer, Billington and Mulkey.

From the squad of Maryville cagers Coach Wilbur Stalcup has culled Quentin Goslee, Don Johnson, Dale Hackett, Harold Hull, and Bob Rogers as probable starters, with Russell, Dowell, Nell Weary, Richard Shroat, Harold Hutcherson, Russell Insley, Bob Alpert, Ike Howell and Dean Walker as spares. Others who may risk their scalps to the braves are: Harold Wiseman, Glenn Breckenridge, Kenneth Dowell and Gale Donahue.

Officials chosen to regulate this game are Waldrot of Missouri and Henshaw of Emporia, Kas.

Intramural Teams Settle Down With Serious Playing

N. Y. A. Dummies, "M" Club Remain Undefeated Teams

A slightly better brand of ball was displayed this week by the intramural teams. As the number of games played increases, the teams play a slower and more conservative type of game. The most important game thus far in the tournament was played last Friday night between the M Club and McMullin's Aces, with the M Club emerging the victor by the tune of 30 to 27. Bill Bernau lead the M Club's scoring with 12 points. Nell scored 3 field goals and one free throw, and was high point man for the Aces.

Next week's games should give some indication as to the final outcome of the tournament.

The standings include games up to and including Monday night:

Local Five to "Bear" Down on Springfield Court

Southwest Missouri Teachers Have "Strong MIAA Team"

"BEAR-ing down" will be the pass-word next Monday night when the Bearcats come upon the floor at the gymnasium in Springfield.

Driving for their sixth straight victory, the local basketeers will start the battle to keep their strangle hold on the first place position in the conference race. Warrensburg, by virtue of a victory over Kirksville, still stands beside Maryville in the local standings.

Springfield has a strong quintet this year and will give Maryville one of the toughest battles of the year. The Springfield five defeated the Pittsburg Kats, Gorillas, who defeated the "headline-known" Warrensburg Mules. Springfield also set the Kirksville Bulldogs back with a 42-33 defeat.

Coach Wilbur Stalcup stated that he would probably start "Georgia Ike" Howell at center. Dick Shroat is slated to play one of the forward positions and Bob Rogers, Don Johnson, or Dale Hackett will be started at the guard spot. This lineup is tentative and will depend upon the outcome of the Kirksville game.

Women in the Sports

Last Thursday night the W. A. A. ran off the second round of the intramural women's basketball tournament with the Varsity Villager's teams 1 and 2, captained by Mary Jeannette Anthony and Hope Wray of Maryville competing. Varsity Villager's team 2 came out the victor.

Last night the Alpha, Sigma Alpha and Doripitory teams competed, but the scores were not available for the publication time this week.

Due to the Pittsburg game, last Monday, no game was played.

Watch for the demonstration game to be played at the last of the quarter by two picked teams. It will be a battle from start to finish, and those of you who care for girl's basketball, and those of you who like to see a good, clean, sporting event will like this game.

DANCE CLUB

With five programs behind them already this year, the dance club is now working hard for three more appearances in the next few months. Last night the group started work on the creation of three new dances to be used in the immediate future.

The first dance, "Nirvana," done to music of the same title by Edward Loch, is a discordant and minor modern piece which is danced by the girls with strong movements of the modern dance. The second number is danced to the well known Fifth Hungarian Dance by Brahms, and is in part a sort of Russian folk dance, and the remainder ballet and simple dance steps.

Students, Faculty Invited to Enter ACP Photo Contest

By Associated Collegiate Press
To give recognition to the outstanding photographs taken by college and university amateur photographers, Collegiate Digest will again this year publish an annual Salon Edition, editors of the publication announced today. All students and faculty members of The Northwest Missouri State Teachers College are invited to enter their photographs in the annual competition, a special communication to The Northwest Missourian states.

Besides giving recognition to individual photographers, the special Salon Edition of Collegiate Digest will show the high quality of the work being turned out by the nation's most active group of amateur photographers and will show the great progress made by that group since the publication of the first Salon Edition last year.

For this special edition, Collegiate Digest's editors will select two or three prints in each of the divisions listed below, the number selected depending upon the space needed for the presentation of the winning photos in each division. To the first place winners in each division, Collegiate Digest will present a special cash award of $5. To second and third place winners, $3 and $2 will be awarded.

The following are the rules for this special Salon edition:

1. All material must be sent in not later than March 1, 1939. Address packages to Salon Editor, Collegiate Digest, 323 Fawkes Building, Minneapolis, Minn.
2. Send technical data about each photo submitted, and give the college year or the faculty standing of the photographer. Information concerning the subject of the photo will be helpful.
3. The following divisions have been set for the contest: (a) Still life; (b) scenes; (c) action and candid photos; (d) portraits. A special division to be called "College Life" has been added this year to give recognition to those photographers who take a special interest in recording the life and activities of students and faculty members.
4. There is no entry fee. Photos will be returned if postage accompanies entries.

Bearcat Claws . . . by ken lawson

Maryville came through last Monday night and the result was that they won by the rather uninteresting score of 22-15. The game was poorly played or rather it was loosely played and the final result of the contest could be predicted by the spectators after the opening minutes of the game. Maryville led at the half 14-4. Right after the half-time intermission the Gorillas staged a rally which netted them six points, but the Bearcats came back strong and they were never threatened again. Somewhat of surprise too after we learned that Pittsburg had defeated Warrensburg rather easily earlier in the season.

In the Capaha Arrow, student publication of the Cape Girardeau State Teachers College, last week I noticed some rather clever remarks concerning the Maryville - Cape game. The writer of the story first stated that "after the final gun some one thousand fans went home in a lather of disappointment" and then went ahead with details of the game, which included the fact that the scorers gun failed to work when the game was over and so play wasn't stopped in time. Coach Stalcup knew that the playing time was over and so when the gun didn't go off he immediately dashed on to the playing floor to make it known that the game was over. The article already mentioned described this incident thusly: "Rogers sank a long one as the game ended winning it by one point and sending Coach Wilbur Stalcup into a jitter-bug trance in the middle of the floor." And my comment on that is that I don't doubt it a bit.

The Bearcats met their third conference rival last night at Kirksville but this column had to be in by Thursday noon so you will have to ask the boys about the high lights of that game. As if you don't find out what you want to know some place else anyway.

Next Monday the Bearcats will meet the Springfield Teachers on the Springfield court and then on Tuesday the 'Cats will come back to Warrensburg to have a try at the Mules. In my estimation these two games will be the two toughest ones

Pittsburg Go Fall to a Mighty Bearcat, 15 to

Sturdy, Visiting Forward, Score High in Game

Playing a somewhat rag game and yet showing the fortitude constantly the Maryville Bearcats defeated the Pittsburg Kats 22-15 here Monday night. The Bearcat offensive made not working as well as it used to be, but their defense was almost perfect. The outcome of the game was almost a foregone conclusion after the first few minutes.

Pittsburg started the score at 10-0, which was soon followed by a pointer by Hull. The score was four all then Hull hit a free throw and the Bearcats were not short end of the score again. The Bearcats scored at the half stood Maryville.

Soon after the second half the Gorillas staged a rally which was followed by Sturdy, elongated Pittsburg who drove hard and scored points which added with pointer by Adams cut the lead to 17-10. But the Bearcats this rally short and were threatened again.

Bearcats were "Off" with about ten minutes to go to be played in the last half. Coaches started substituting Bearcats started a passing game. Pittsburg scored Maryville the last three points that still left the cats with a seven-point lead. The Gorillas did not show gresiveness which had charmed them through the season, they hit their shots from the outside. The Bearcats were what off for the night, the fault being lack of punch bounds. This is explained by the extreme height of from Pittsburg.

The Bearcats will meet field next Monday night and following night they will play in the Warrensburg Mules. The box score:
